

Wednesday, January 20th, 2010

Cultural events attract good number of students

Jain International Residential School holds rangoli contest

COLOURFUL: Students of junior classes of Cauvery High School, Nagarabhavi, participating in the fancy dress competition at the 'Young Mind...Creativity', a science and art exhibition held in the school recently.

BANGALORE: Miranda School and Junior College conducted its annual sports meet at HAL Sports Club recently. G.H. Sawkar, Chairman of the institution and Dr. Sujatha of Jaslok Hospital, Mumbai, were the chief guests.

The sports meet began with the march-past by the contingents of four houses - Agni, Akash, Pruthvi and Vayu.

The sports captain then lit the sports torch and took oath on behalf of all the participants.

Students participated in 15 events which were interspersed with drill displays.

School principal Vijayalakshmi Prakash welcomed the gathering and said: "Besides academics, students in our school are encouraged to participate in sports activities as it helps make them confident, strong, energetic and disciplined".

S.N. Katarki, secretary and Arvind S. Katarki, director, gave away prizes to the winners.

SCHOOL NOTES

Exhibition

Cauvery High School, Nagarabhavi, conducted "Young Mind...Creativity", a science and art exhibition recently. Students from pre-primary to high school sections participated. Students of senior classes displayed charts and models related to rockets, eclipses and sericulture. For the children of the junior classes, it was a fun-filled event. They participated in ethnic and fancy dress shows. Parents visited in large numbers and appreciated the participation of the students.

Celebrations

Jain International Residential School, Kanakapura Road, celebrated Makara Sankranti and Pongal festivals. The celebrations began with inter-house rangoli competition.

Children displayed their skill at drawing rangolis. Each of their colourful art works displayed a blend of both traditional and modern ideas.

The participants enthusiastically explained to the judges what they had tried to convey with their rangolis.

Wing Commander Ganesh Sharma, Chief Executive Officer of the school said that the harvest festival signifies the nature's law that every action of ours will be either rewarded or reprimanded. The festival is also the time to thank Nature and enjoy the fruits of one's hardwork, he said.

Ambuj Sharma, public relations officer, Saroj Subbarao, senior counsellor, and dorm parents Mohanty and Nandakumari were present.

THE HINDU NIE TEAM