

TEACHER'S DAY CELEBRATIONS

National teacher's day was celebrated on the 5th September at JIRS to commemorate the birth of the academician, philosopher and thinker Dr. Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan.

This year's celebrations were truly one of a kind and of a type never seen before in the school. For the first time in the history of JIRS role reversal took place between the teachers and students. The students took charge of the entire day and ensured that the teachers had time to enjoy, have fun and relax the whole day; devoid of any workload or tension. Members of the student council personally woke their teachers up with warm teacher's day greetings and handmade bookmarks and cards for each teacher. The rest of the morning consisted of cricket matches, fun games and a tug of war between the staff and students. The students got to see a side of the teachers never seen before – fun filled and frolicked!! The teachers were allowed to freshen up and then treated to a movie show by the students. Personalized gifts were presented to the teachers much to their delight.

The much awaited evening had many surprises in store for all involved. Nobody's expectations were let down after the show ended. The students had organized on-stage games such as 'punkiest hairdo', 'school quiz', 'fashion parade' and 'student-teacher ball dance' for the teachers to participate. The evening also had dances, musical performances and speeches galore. The day went without a halt and proceeded amazingly with clockwork perfection.

We can all safely say that this was by far the best teacher's day celebrations in the history of the school, where the teachers enjoyed and so did the students.
