

THE HINDU

Monday, December 13th, 2010

To help bring about change in society

Students of Jain International Residential School presenting a skit to mark World AIDS Day

SCHOOL NOTES

Students of Jain International Residential School (JIRS), Kanakapura Road, observed World AIDS Day in a unique manner. An inter-house competition was organised in which students of senior classes participated.

Each house was given a task to prepare, plan, and present ways to create awareness among people, especially the rural folk on AIDS, and other sexually transmitted diseases.

They came up with multiple ideas to fight the disease.

Students suggested a combination of activities such as road shows, posters, informative speeches, placards, and distribution of pamphlets that would help bring about change.

Shankara house won the first prize, while Meera house came second.